Subject: Hewie's Favorites Newsletter Revived

Hewie's Favorites now has it's own home and has been totally revamped. It is located at <http://www.hewie.net>. With over 1,500 links, I have placed a site-search engine to help you find links.

Hewie's Favorite's Newsletter is being revived. Because my mailing list has grown so long and many of you have changed addresses, I am going back to an automated list which is located at ListBot. You control your own information and subscription. You are receiving this because you were previously in my ListBot. If you wish to remain on the list, do nothing. If you wish to change your email address or unsubscribe at any time, just click on the link at Hewie's Favorites or go directly to <http://www.listbot.com>.

You may have been assigned a password, if you do not already have one with ListBot. If you already have one and do not remember it, or it was assigned to you, log in at <http://www.listbot.com>. Click on "Member Log In." Fill in your email address. Then next to "Password" you will see a link that says "- Lost yours?". Click on that, and it will send your password. Do not panic if it is a password that you never saw before. It was assigned to you when you first joined the ListBot and you never needed it before.

Thanks for your time. I am personally inviting you to receive periodic information about computers, computer systems, the internet, web pages, and notices when Hewie's Favorites is updated. Your email address and information will never be sold or used by others. You may remove yourself from the list at any time. I am sorry if I imposed on your time and you are not interested.
